Description

The 3BSE031151R1 module from ABB is an advanced device with a frequency of 96, providing high performance in industrial applications. Equipped with 32 units of memory, this module allows for efficient data storage. Compliant with the pm865 component specification, it offers reliability and stability. Additionally, the safety level of sil3 and certification in industrial safety sil3 ensure that the product meets the highest protection standards in challenging industrial environments.
