Description

The Labod TSR 55-5,7/11-4Q85 is a specialized component designed for industrial automation applications. Manufactured by Labod, a reputable producer in the field, this part is identified by the part number TSR 55-5,7/11-4Q85. It is commonly used in fuse boxes for industrial machinery, providing essential protection against electrical faults. The component is known for its durability and reliability, ensuring optimal performance in demanding industrial environments. This part is suitable for various industrial machines requiring fuse protection, contributing to the safety and efficiency of the equipment. Please note that the availability of this part may vary, and it is advisable to check with authorized distributors or the manufacturer for current information.
